Life as an Entrepreneur

The Trigger: Why did you become an entrepreneur? What prompted you to take that first step? How did you develop the concept for your business?

I have always been an entrepreneur, it is in my DNA. My first endeavour started when I was five years old. I started with selling moss door-to-door and before I knew it, entrepreneurship was my biggest passion. I started a clothing line in elementary school and another clothing line in high school. Between the two companies I sold over 1,000 items across Canada and donated much of our earnings to charity. I then realized the power that entrepreneurship has to make a difference in the world. I have been on a mission to use my talents to positively move our society forward ever since.

Describe your greatest accomplishment/most rewarding moment of your career as an entrepreneur?

Speaking in front of 20,000 youth with hundreds of thousands watching online at We Day. I still get emotional thinking about how incredible the atmosphere was and the enormous power that the youth have to make a difference in the world. I devote much of my time to empowering youth to become entrepreneurs and I feel truly blessed to have had the opportunity to share my message on stage at We Day.

Please describe your next challenge or plans for your business or for yourself as an entrepreneur:

My challenge is in chasing my personal potential as well as the potential that ShareShed has to revolutionize the way we have fun outside. We're currently expanding our business into the adventure guiding industry and have very audacious goals for 2016 that both scare and excite me.

We've raised over $1,000,000 from top investors such as the seed investor of Uber and our plans is to scale our business and raise a larger series A. We're on a mission to create a world of unlimited access to adventure and my challenge is building something bigger than ourselves that moves society forward.
